R. K. Redding Construction Celebrates 25th Anniversary West Georgia-based construction firm honored by Haralson County and the City of Bremen by proclaiming April 21 as R.K. Redding Construction Day

Bremen, GA (April 21, 2016) – When Randall Redding decided to make a difference in his hometown of Bremen, Ga., he might have been the only one who imagined 25 years later that the construction firm he founded – R.K. Redding Construction, Inc. (RKR) – would grow to employ 50 people with more than $50 million in annual revenue. Haralson County and the City of Bremen are honoring the firm on April 21 as R.K. Redding Construction Day.

“We wanted to honor RKR’s community leadership, community contributions, and the overall economic impact made by this exemplary organization,” said Eric McDonald, President and CEO of Greater Haralson Chamber of Commerce. “This resolution is designed to thank Randall Redding and his team for running a business of such integrity and for paving the way for further economic growth in Haralson County and the City of Bremen.”

RKR has prospered under Redding’s guiding philosophy of putting customer service above all else. Today, the company is an established general contractor and construction management firm that works throughout the southeast.

“It’s truly a blessing to have had an opportunity to make a difference during the past 25 years,” said Redding. “The most important part to me has been the countless friends I’ve made along this journey and the solid reputation our entire team has built not only with our clients, but within the industry.”

Active in many markets, including education, medical, religious facilities, cultural, governmental, industrial and office/retail, RKR delivers comprehensive construction services and solutions to its clients. Some landmark projects built include the Trinka Davis Veterans Village, West Georgia Technical College Allied Health, Georgia Tech Boggs NRE Lab Renovation and numerous facilities for Tanner Health System and University of West Georgia, as well as multiple K-12 projects for systems including City of Bremen, Paulding, Polk and Haralson County School Systems.

RKR’s philosophy is based on honesty, quality and integrity with the ultimate goal of gaining customer trust and satisfaction. This goal is evidenced by Inc. Magazine, Atlanta Business Chronicle and Georgia Trend naming the firm as one of the fastest growing companies in 2010. Redding is also the immediate past-President of Associated General Contractors of Georgia.

Currently, RKR is licensed in six southeastern states: Georgia, Florida, Tennessee, North Carolina, South Carolina and Alabama. In addition, the company has won countless awards throughout the years, including 10 Associated General Contractor Awards for excellence.

As the economy continues to grow, R.K. Redding Construction looks forward to being a part of building the future.
