R. K. Redding Construction Builds on Success by Winning Associated General Contractors of America Awards

The Allied Healthcare Building takes top honor in Georgia's Build Georgia Award

DESTIN, Fla. (June 9, 2014) – R. K. Redding Construction (RKR) of Bremen, Georgia, a full service, multi-disciplinary construction management and general construction contracting firm, received the top honor from AGC Georgia, the statewide chapter of The Associated General Contractors of America, Inc. (AGC of America) at its “Build Georgia” award ceremony in Destin, Fla. The firm’s work on the Allied Healthcare Building was recognized with a First Place Award in the construction management division.

“The Allied Health project was an example of everyone working together toward a common goal, which allowed us to return a savings on the budget to the school,” said Randall Redding, President & CEO of RKR. “We are humbled by this recognition and I am grateful for the talented team at RKR who take pride in every project on which they work.”

The $8 million, 46,300 square foot Allied Healthcare Building was built in Newnan on the new Coweta County Campus at West Georgia Technical College and required an accelerated nine and a half month schedule. In addition to classrooms, lecture halls and laboratories outfitted for health professions, the facility also houses administrative offices and a student library.

Recent AGC Georgia Awards for RKR include the following projects: Trinka Davis Veterans Village (2013), GT Boggs NRE Lab Renovation and UWG Campus Bookstore (2012), Paulding County High School addition and a Best Sustainable Practices Award (2011), UWG’s Greek Village (2010), North Paulding School Cluster (2009), and Rockmart Middle School (2008).
